Motorola

WS2000 Wireless Switch from Motorola

The WS2000 Wireless Switch from Motorola is a market leading, powerful all in one solution that simplifies and reduces the cost of owning and managing wired and wireless (802.11a/b/g) networks in Enterprise branch offices. The integration of router, gateway, firewall, PoE (Power over Ethernet) eliminate the cost of purchasing and reduces the complexity of managing multiple pieces of equipment.

WS2000 v2.1 introduces even more functionality, including support for Wi-Fi Multimedia extensions (WMM) that enables the WS2000 from Motorola to provide enhanced peak performance for the most demanding of voice & video applications and secondly, v2.1 adds support for secure public wireless internet access through its Hotspot functionality. The ability to easily and cost-effectively scale to meet growing demands, as well as upgrades to support new security, radio and other standards provides the assurance that the WS2000 meets the requirements of any business today, and tomorrow.

The Challenge

Your business would like to use the power of flexible mobility at numerous branch offices to increase productivity of the workforce, with Enterprise class features and functionality. The branch office would greatly benefit from the use of mobile wi-fi devices to deliver increased productivity and increase customer service, but without the in-branch IT expertise, the thought of purchasing and managing both wired and wireless networking equipment is overwhelming.
